How MAN Energy Solutions drives tomorrow's economy and ecology.

Future in the making

The new brand appearance embodies the strategic and technological departure of the company. We understand that energy in all its shapes and sizes plays a fundamental role in the future of our planet. We aim to contribute to the climate goals established in the Paris Agreement. But what can we do to make sure the worldwide economy is climate neutral by 2050?

Our answer is threefold. Half of the world's trade is driven by MAN ship propulsion systems. We advocate a maritime energy turnaround and offer a range of alternative propulsion technologies to reduce consumption and emissions.

Secondly, we're constantly developing new technology for the generation and storage of electric energy. This will help us cope with fluctuating renewable energy and lower the carbon footprint of power plants in remote places.

Last but not least, we use digital transformation to make industrial processes more efficient and reliable.

Together with our customers, partners, and suppliers we wish to transform energy into sustainable progress and prosperity.

That's our mission –
this is future in the making.
